G. O. P. Resolutions Committee Meets

NON WAR SPENDING IS TARGET OF G.O.P.

Republicans Meet In Chicago to Map Fall Campaign Plans

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, April 22.—A main target of Republican big guns in the fall campaign, Chairman Joseph W. Martin of the GOP national committee believes, will be the Roosevelt administration's non-war spending.
"The people are willing that we spend all that is needed in the war effort but they are getting fed up on other expenditures," Martin said yesterday.
He said the party, from coast to coast, "is knit together as it has not been for more than a year," and that its financial condition was the best in history, virtually debt free.
"We have very little money on hand, however, and we'll run a poor man's campaign," Martin said.
A campaign program, he said, will be drafted at a conference the first week in June. The meeting will be in Cincinnati or St. Louis, probably St. Louis.
The chairman said the national committee, in setting down a war and post-war policy Monday, handled all controversial questions "with wisdom."
The committee demanded an offensive, uncompromising war until peace with victory was attained and expressed realization that the nation has an obligation to help bring about cooperation of the nations in the post-war world.

City Gives State 'Go Ahead' Signal On E. State St. Job

The state highway department received the "go ahead" signal from city council on the improvement of downtown E. State st. when final legislation on the paving project was approved by the solons last night.
A resolution authorizing the improvement was passed, in addition to an ordinance transferring $1,000 from the motor vehicle license fund to the street maintenance and repair fund to take care of the city's share of expense in the undertaking.
Another measure authorized Service Director Frank Wilson to enter into contract with the state highway department for the job. According to highway department specifications which were submitted, the resurfacing of E. State st. between Ellsworth and Lincoln avenues, will cost $6,000, the state to pay $5,000 and the city $1,000. An asphaltic concrete surface is to be applied.
Continue Rail Salvage
Council also instructed City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff to continue the rail salvage project on N. Ellsworth ave., E. Second st. and N. Broadway. Removal of the old Salem Railway lines on S. Ellsworth ave. also is contemplated, but no action was taken on their removal until Solicitor Henry L. Reese checks the title to the property.
Rails of the old Y. & O. road have been lifted already on S. Broadway, Franklin st. and S. Ellsworth ave., as a part of the WPA project, which the engineer told council last night could continue if the councilmen would say the word. More WPA funds for the work are available, Barckhoff explained.
The rails in the shop area were sold to the E. W. Bliss Co. The engineer said that the sale of the rails would cover the cost of patching and repaving the streets afterwards.
Residents of dirt streets were requested by the service director to refrain from oiling their streets until the city scraper could make a return trip to finish grading operations. Most of the streets have been scrapped once.

How Community Fund Serves

MEMORIAL BUILDING
One of the most active forces against delinquency in this area is, admittedly, the Memorial building. Columbia county court officials have long recognized the Memorial building, center of the community's organized recreation program, as a vital welfare agency, although the activities which have their headquarters there extend into many and varied fields.
The Memorial building serves indirectly in helping to shape the lives of countless young people, and the lessons in sportsmanship and clean living learned in early years prove everlasting.
With the nation at war, organized recreation becomes more important than ever to the national effort—that is, organized recreation which is built upon a sound basis like that of the Memorial building. There are many fronts to this war and not the least of them is the home front where a war can be won or lost as easily as it is on the field of battle.
The Memorial building will continue its program, war or no war, as a vital link on the home front.
It will have its softball leagues this summer, as it has for years past. It will continue its basketball, volleyball, badminton, and a variety of other events, for youngsters all the way up from the grade school age.
It will serve as a civic center, where service clubs and other organizations gather to carry on their important duties. It is the headquarters, too, for the Red Cross and the draft board, two outstanding war organizations.
It will give to the community returns far beyond the investment which the community makes in it, in the way of Community Chest contributions.

COOPER RELEASED IN DRAFT PROBE

Charges that Samuel Cooper, 38, of Middleton, failed to register for the draft in February were dismissed last Tuesday by U. S. Commissioner Ross H. Diser in Youngstown on recommendation of the District Attorney's office.
Cooper, who drove to the draft board office at Columbiana to tell the board he would not register, gave the clerk enough information about himself to constitute a registration, Diser said.

COMMANDOS SMASH NAZIS IN NEW RAID

Daring Britishers Strike at German-Held Coast Near Boulogne

TWO-HOUR ATTACK CONSIDERED SUCCESS

Germans Reported Driven Back. Trawler Is Hit. British Losses Light

(By Associated Press)
Britain's daring Commandos stormed the Nazi-occupied French coast near Boulogne this morning, drove back the Germans guarding the coast and withdrew after two hours. British headquarters announced after the rumble of heavy cannonade was heard over the Dover strait before daylight.
A communiqué said the Commandos, striking in the first combined operations raid since the spectacular attack on the German U-boat base at St. Nazaire, March 28, ranged the French coastal region testing Nazi defenses and collecting military information.
Such raids might be part of a program to find "soft spots" in the German coastal defenses as a prelude to a British invasion attempt.
Trawler Damaged
The communiqué said British casualties were "very light" and that a naval force accompanying the Commandos damaged a German trawler, which attempted to intercept the raiding party.
A second Nazi trawler was reported set afire.
The new cross-channel thrust—one of a series which is said to have spread litters among German garrisons along the French "invasion coast"—was accompanied by heavy firing along the thick-misted Dover strait.
Lookouts of the Kent coast said the thunder of artillery came from the direction of Boulogne and that a second period of cannon fire was heard later, lasting about 15 minutes.
British headquarters said the raid was carried out by "a small reconnaissance" force and declared that "German troops were driven back before the advance of our troops."
No British ships were damaged, the communiqué said.
Boulogne is one of the main German defense strongholds along the coast nearest to England.

Talks were given by Sir Knight Judson C. King, grand generalissimo of the Grand Commandery, and Paul Price, president of the Council for Templar Advancement of the Ninth Ohio district.
Preceding the inspection dinner was served by the Knights Templar Ladies auxiliary.

Army, Navy Join In Drive Against Work Slowdowns

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Army and Navy were disclosed today to be pooling efforts with five other government agencies in an attempt to combat industrial slowdowns in war production work.
Describing such slowdowns as "reprehensible," Senator Byrd (D-Va.) made public a letter from Daniel S. Ring, director of Maritime personnel, reporting that efforts were underway to develop a "centralized method of treatment of this problem." Ring did not outline the method.
Byrd told reporters he was convinced that in many instances deliberate attempts had been made to retard production, or else inefficiency of management or "Washington bureaucracy" had produced the same results. He said he would ask the senate naval affairs committee to make a thorough investigation if immediate remedial steps were not taken.
"We can't tolerate this kind of thing," he declared. "It makes no difference who is to blame, it's got to stop."
Byrd previously created a stir by publicizing a report by Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher, director of naval shore establishments, asserting that work slowdowns had cut production in eight plants making vital war equipment for the Navy.
The Virginia senator subsequently asked the Maritime commission for a report on any similar situation it might have encountered. Ring, replying that the commission had no direct evidence of slowdowns said tactics of this nature were "very difficult to detect with definite and tangible proof."
He added, however, that representatives of the Army, Navy, Maritime commission, War Production board, War Labor board, Labor Department Conciliation service and the Bureau of Labor Standards were developing a uniform procedure which they hoped would solve the problem.

NEW PROPOSAL IN CONGRESS

How Will War Dept's Dependency Plan Affect You? Here's Answers

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—Sponsored by the War department, a bill providing subsistence allowances for dependents of men in the armed services is pending before Congress. The following questions and answers explain its provisions:
Q. Whose dependents would be covered?
A. Those of enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine corps and Coast Guard, up to and including the grade of sergeant in the army, and corresponding grades in the other services.
Q. When would the measure become effective, if enacted?
A. On the first day of the fourth calendar month following enactment. Its provisions would extend for six months after the end of the war.
Q. How much would dependents get?
A. That depends upon the degree of relationship. Two classes would be set up: Class A, wife and children; Class B, parents, grandparents, grandchildren, brothers and sisters. When an enlisted man wished to provide an allowance in either classification, $20 a month would be deducted from his pay.

Battle Takes Place Near Approaches to Australian Center

U. S. Navy Torpedo Boats Seriously Damage Japanese Light Cruiser in Philippines; British, Chinese Retreat in Burma

By ROGER D. GREENE, Associated Press War Editor
Allied sky fighters defending the approaches to Australia were credited officially today with scoring a 4-0 victory over Japanese "zero" planes in a battle over Port Moresby, New Guinea, while U. S. Navy torpedo boats were reported to have seriously damaged a Japanese light cruiser in the Philippines.
A bulletin from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia said United Nations airmen shot down four Japanese planes without loss to themselves at Port Moresby, and that other allied fliers set numerous fires among wharves and buildings in an attack on Rabaul, New Britain.
Lieut.-Gen. George H. Brett, U. S. A., chief of the combined air forces in the southwest Pacific, praised the aerial defenders for "doing a hell of a fine job" in hammering potential Japanese invasion bases north of Australia, and he declared:
"Everything is on the up and up in developing Australia as a base for long-range operations."
On the critical Burma war front, British headquarters announced that out-numbered British and Chinese troops again were forced to retreat under heavy pressure by Japanese invasion columns driving into the earth-scorched Yennangyau oil fields in western Burma.
A New Delhi communiqué said the Allies completed a fighting withdrawal across the Pincuaung river "but not without losses of personnel and equipment."
The Pincuaung flows into the Irrawaddy river near the town of Yennangyau, which Chinese reinforcements had recaptured only a few days ago.
The communiqué said fighting continued "in and around Yennangyau," implying that the Japanese had swept back into the town after being driven three miles to the south by counter-attacking Chinese troops.
The latest reversal dampened hopes that the British-Chinese Allies might hold the invaders in a "Second Bataan," and indicated that the Japanese were now pouring heavy reinforcements into the campaign before the arrival of the monsoon rains.
Chinese reports last week said the Japanese had landed five and one-half fresh divisions—perhaps 80,000 troops—at Bhamo, 300 miles below the Yennangyau battle sector.
Evidence that Japan's military still were jittery over the prospect of American bombing raids came to light in a second and stronger warning by the Tokyo government against spreading rumors, which it said would be "henceforth a punishable offense."

AXIS PATENTS SEIZED BY U. S.

War Production Floods Into New Channels As Roosevelt Acts

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—America's war production effort burst through into new channels today under the impetus of a presidential order seizing all enemy-owned or controlled patents—including German patents on the manufacture of synthetic rubber and fuels.
President Roosevelt announced the seizure order yesterday at a press conference sandwiched between a series of war councils with representatives of the United Nations.
The announcement was hailed by members of the patent investigation committee who said they might broaden proposed legislation to give the government greater control over patents.
"A very salutory and necessary step," said Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) a member of the committee.
Mr. Roosevelt, invoking his wartime emergency powers, said legal and technical obstacles would be brushed aside and the several thousand patents controlled by Axis nations would be explored and developed for whatever use they may be to America at war.
The first consideration, he declared, was to win.
And when the war is over, he went on, the patents will not be turned to NEW AXIS, Page 8

GRANDPA BUSY, TOO

Even Grandma Wants to do Her Bit to Aid Nation's War Effort

WASHINGTON, April 22.—This is grandpa and grandma's war, too. Social Security board records disclosed today that 500,000 men and women over 65 had refused to quit work and settle down on government pensions, preferring instead to help run the nation's industries.
Some 20,000 of those already receiving pensions have written the board to withdraw their names, that they have taken jobs in industries covered by security insurance and are not entitled to pensions so long as they hold these jobs.
The East Palestine Minstrel association has been organized for several years and the chorus has been singing for the enjoyment it gets out of it. It now is using its hobby for the benefit of those things which will help win the war. In thus donating its talent it still is having a lot of fun out of its hobby and contributing something worthwhile to its own and surrounding communities.

QUESTION OF THE HOUR

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's declaration that not everybody can afford to put 10 percent of his income into War Savings Bonds, as called for in official requirements, raises a ticklish question. It will be charged that Mr. Morgenthau has left a door open for evading War Bond purchases.

How much can a person spare for War Bonds? Mr. Morgenthau and the whole government are going to have to grapple with some definitive answers to that one in the course of events. The possibilities of raising money by the sale of securities are going to be determined in the long run by the government's success in keeping the people supplied with buying power—surplus buying power.

While it may be convenient for the double-domed economists in the capital to kid themselves and the public by pretending that surplus exists and must be hoisted up, regardless, the cruel truth is that few citizens supposed to be burdened with the surplus have noticed any. For virtually all white collar workers, the war has meant nothing but a steady decline of buying power; their only participation in the war boom has been a headache over rising prices. With the right approach, the treasury can reach any reasonable goal in the sale of War Bonds. Part of the right approach, certainly, is to avoid the suggestion that the theorists in Washington may be losing touch with the earners out where the nation makes its living and pays the freight. Secretary Morgenthau has taken some of the sting out of a suggestion that every earner in the country could find 10 percent of his income that wasn't already allocated.

MANPOWER MOBILIZATION

It is evident from Paul V. McNutt's own version of his duties as chairman of the new war manpower commission that he shares few of the apprehensions stirred by announcement of the commission's creation. Mr. McNutt seems to think of himself as merely the chairman of a group tackling the extremely troublesome problem of an adequate labor supply—a kind of labor coordinator.

To the extent that the manpower commission will work with selective service, it probably will duplicate the "work or fight" policy of World War I. But its real purpose will be to bring war jobs and employees together more rapidly and efficiently than they are being brought together by the uncoordinated operation of supply and demand in the labor market now. With the exception of public employment services which trade information about types of workers needed, employment in the emergency still is being conducted on a free-for-all plan. It leaves a lot to be desired.

All-out production for total war necessitates maximum employment of manpower where it will do the most good. For the United States to think about doing the job it has started without a labor plan as comprehensive as its production plan would be to tie one hand behind its back. Mr. McNutt's manpower commission is late in getting started; it has a lot of lost time to make up. If the manpower shortage becomes as acute as it is expected to become, it will be handing one of the toughest assignments in the war effort.

A BLOW THAT MUST NOT FALL

It is freely admitted on all sides that the gravest danger in the Laval setup is a possible sell-out of French possessions to Germany. For the United States, this means that Guadeloupe, Martinique, French Guiana, St. Pierre, Miquelon and a number of smaller islands in this hemisphere must be kept safe for the United Nations.

The American public, it hardly needs to be said, is not prepared to condone any half measures in the job of minimizing the effect of Laval's puppet administration on the war against Germany. Specifically, it is not prepared to hear suddenly that the aircraft carrier Bearn has left the harbor at Martinique that German submarines have been using French possessions in this hemisphere for any purpose whatsoever, or that "tourists" have become interested in French Guiana.

The United States has tried hard to appease Vichy. The extent of its success may be guessed at from the fact that Laval has been placed in power there; Adolf Hitler, apparently, is certain that here is one man who will serve no one but Adolf Hitler. Under the circumstances, further gestures of appeasement would appear not only useless but foolhardy. If it should be necessary to seize all French possessions as a security measure, public approval could be had for the asking.

ANOTHER PRECINCT HEARD FROM

Everybody, including Republican officials, themselves, knows that the Grand Old Party is where it was when Woodrow Wilson was in the White House. It looks like curtains and sad music for the Republicans again. It always looks that way when Democrats are in the saddle and riding high.

The reason it hasn't turned out that way so far for either party is because the minority party has refused to lie down and die to suit those who wanted to get rid of it. Its members have reserved their right to yell, "We object!" If they lacked leaders to coordinate their yelling, they did it anyway. All the America is, was or hopes to be it owes to the citizens in the precincts who took their representative democracy seriously.

All of which is by way of pointing out that I don't matter greatly what momentous decisions made by Republican officials meeting in Chicago. What matters is the things being said in the precincts, where party government lives and has its being—and in the precincts the United States still is a country where a man is guaranteed the right to rise up and say, "I object!" when he doesn't like something his government is doing. If his objection is multiplied by a few million times, it becomes an overthrow, and it is the possibility of an overthrow that keeps a majority party on its toes.

These are fundamental facts about representative democracy, but it seems a good thing to speak of them occasionally for the benefit of persons who would prefer to forget.

They Need Individual Attention, Says Clendening

general feeling of abdominal discomfort with localized symptoms in the large intestine.

At least 35 per cent of the patients who come to a large clinic for digestive diseases, it has been reported by Dr. Sara Jordan, have nervous disturbances for which treatment of the colon is the outstanding requirement.

Everybody, including the patient, realizes that a great deal of the trouble caused by this condition is due to a nervous make-up, but it is also true that in most cases there is some localized spot of physical condition which is in the digestive tract, and unless this is corrected all the psychology in the world is wasted and ineffective.

The patient with an unstable colon has usually abused himself with the habitual use of drugs, particularly cathartics, faddy diets, overwork, lack of recognition of the necessity for a period of rest and a continual jumping from one form of treatment to another, depending upon the advice given him by different neighbors. None of these patients seem to realize that their colons are individuals themselves, and that what was good for an old lady who died in Yarmouth, Massachusetts, in 1870 is not necessarily good for them.

The symptoms of this form of digestive disorder are predominantly abdominal distress and tension. This makes everybody feel at some time or another that they should have a cathartic and most of them are habitual cathartic users. The fact that this makes the colon more unstable and more irritable is something that they do not take the trouble to analyze.

Distension is associated with gas distress and usually occurs regularly after meals. Almost always this is due to some localized form of irritation. Nausea and vomiting occur in a very small percentage of cases; a few have diarrhea. The constipation complained of by these patients, when analyzed, usually means that they have been taking laxatives over a period of years until they are dependent on them.

The puzzling thing to the physician about these patients is that he can usually find nothing to account for their symptoms. They are seldom overweight, their blood is unchanged, they have no recognized or standard disease. The B-ray shows no change in the rate of stomach or intestinal movement, except occasionally when they are in acute distress.

The treatment is principally directed toward relieving tension, getting them out of the cathartic habit and putting them on a diet which suits their particular and individual colon.

People write and ask me for a diet for colitis. There is no diet for colitis that suits everybody and the proper diet has to be found by a patient and his physician. Of course, the diet should be easily digestible and non-irritating, well-cooked, and chewed and eaten under calm circumstances which leave the mind free.

The vanilla plant is a member of the orchid family native to Mexico.

CHAPTER TWENTY

A cold breeze raked the deck of the "Vandam" as it crept through the darkness. Brinda Duncan leaning against the rail, gazing in the good feel of wind and fog, drinking in the damp salt air. The thought in the damp air was a German agent, who held the fate of Sir John in his hands, filled her with an excitement that verged on fear. Could she seek him out and arrest from him that list of agents before he made contact with the enemy? Could she find him in time?

She stared into the darkness for a little while, then turned from the rail and started toward the dining room.

Her course took her along "B" deck. Near the head of the stars, a cabin-door opened, and the man stepped out. He almost bumped into her.

"Forgive me—the darkness," he apologized. His English was slightly accented. As he stood aside to let her pass, she had a startling sense of having seen him before. From the corner of her eye, she noted the number of his cabin, 210.

As she continued to the dining saloon, she had the feeling that he was watching her.

While sitting on deck, before dinner, Brinda was approached by the tall blond who reiterated apologies for the recent bumping accident and introduced himself as Kurt Larsen of Copenhagen. He said he was engaged in civil engineering that took him throughout Europe, including even the countries at war. And he stressed his sense of strict Danish neutrality.

Larsen seemed amused by Brinda's series of naive remarks. "You must know considerable about conditions in Germany and France," he said. "Do the German people approve Hitler's alliance with Stalin?"

"And the food shortage?"

With an ironical smile, the handsome stranger interrupted: "Let's have a cocktail, Miss Duncan, and after dinner, may we play ping-pong? Let's not discuss the war. Your eyes are too disturbing for a serious conversation. Have a cigarette?"

Larsen held out his massive silver case. Before taking one Brinda hesitated for a second—she looked at him masterly glint. He had been her companion for the past half hour. . . . had she forgotten her mission—and Dick? It looked as though she had been magnetized by the clear light blue eyes of the Nordic engineer.

She took a cigarette and arose.

Later, Larsen joined her at dinner. The steward served the hors d'oeuvres.

"This butter is excellent, isn't it?" exclaimed Larsen, preparing a roll for Brinda. She didn't answer, but a smile played around her lovely lips. . . .

That evening Brinda sat in her deck chair watching promenading passengers. . . . If only luck were with her. She had three days left to succeed in her mission. The Vandam would reach Naples then and the last list of the British secret agents would be on its way. . . .

She supposed that there were English secret service men on board the "Vandam." Was she not mad to attempt this capture—with such professionals around her?

Who was the Caucasian who called himself a prospector of oil wells in Baku. . . . or the Norwegian banker with the smiling eyes?

She had danced with a supposed South American senator and though his tangoing was perfect, where did he really come from?

And why waste her time thinking about men? She might look for a woman spy. . . .

The atmosphere on the liner was tense—more like in a mental ward at Bellevue than on a luxury liner. It was one of those wartime voyages when those who are not worrying about what may be happening to their homes, or to their business, sit up all night with their life belts on, dreading mines or submarines.

Brinda's meditation was interrupted by a strange looking older woman. She looked more like a medium priced fortune teller on a vacation, with her colored scarves and ridiculously rouged cheeks, than the school teacher she said she was. With five mystery novels under her arms she stopped to talk to Brinda about the weather.

A beautiful platinum blonde walked by. She was a refugee from a stranded musical comedy company, which had toured Central Europe, returning to her native land. The heels on her shoes were so high she could hardly balance herself. Nevertheless there was an inexplicable sadness in her baby blue eyes. Was her conscience bothering her or did she worry about her next evening dress?

This was the kind of woman who would succumb to the fatal charms of "Ajax," the master Nazi spy, Brinda thought. But the platinum blonde gave no sign of wanting to talk to anyone. Brinda arose. She would find a pretext. . . .

The middle aged woman immediately occupied the deck chair she vacated. Brinda had almost reached the blonde when the interesting "perpetuum mobile," the eternally walking dark Russian woman, who wore a mannish suit and spoke with a slavic accent, approached her.

"Miss Duncan, won't you make a fourth at bridge with us?" She tipped the end of her small cigar.

"I'd love to, but I wouldn't dare. Thanks just the same." Then she added, "My name is awful."

Brinda nodded and hurried on. The platinum blonde had disappeared in the meantime.

"You still owe me a game of ping-pong." It was the pleasant voice of Larsen interrupting her unsuccessful search. Brinda hesitated; then asked, "What do we play for?"

"Perhaps a kiss?"

"Good. . . . a kiss it shall be!"

They began the game, after putting their evening coats aside. Brinda was winning when suddenly an idea struck her. She started losing deliberately. Soon Larsen counted the score: "Nineteen—twenty—twenty-one! I won and now . . . the prize!"

Putting like a little girl, Brinda kissed his left cheek after murmuring, "A debt of honor must be paid." Then she exclaimed, "Oh, I've messed you all up with my rough . . . so sorry!" And she started scrubbing his cheek violently with her chiffon handkerchief. His face thoroughly cleaned, she smiled at him mischievously. . . .

Just then the platinum blonde passed by Larsen greeted her. "Oh, you ladies haven't met? This is Miss Duncan, Miss Olin."

Brinda was delighted to talk to the girl at last.

"I've won at ping-pong from Miss Duncan," Larsen announced proudly. With a thin little voice, the blonde replied: "I have never played ping-pong. Can't stand it."

Brinda looked at her, the expression on her face seemed sedately sinister.

"Have a drink with us in the bar?" Larsen invited.

"Thanks, but I am awfully tired. Will you excuse me?" She nodded to Larsen, and left.

"Strange girl, isn't she?" remarked Brinda.

Larsen shrugged his shoulders: "Average show girl, that's all."

"Have you another of those cigarettes you gave me earlier today?" Brinda asked, suddenly changing the subject.

"Certainly!" Larsen opened his case. "I'm glad you like them, they are mild."

Brinda smiled: "They are stronger than you think."

Upon returning to her cabin, Brinda was in high spirits. She had danced till three in the morning with Larsen and others.

In her note sent to Dick before boarding the Vandam she had promised to send him a wire in simple code, which wouldn't be suspicious. If she had been unsuccessful the wire would be worded: "Crossing calm fondly — Duncan."

If, however, she had been able to discover something important she would say: "Al my thoughts with you darling—Duncan."

She meditated for a little while. Which one should she send: Having decided that problem, she entered the wireless room.

Dick's answer came next morning: "Thanks for good wishes kisses Aunt Emma."

Nothing could have pleased Brinda more. It meant that Dick would take measures to help her; perhaps in Gibraltar where the "Vandam" would be stopped and subjected to British inspection. . . .

Good old Dick! Her heart was filled with tenderness. She forgot all her previous anger and jealousy. . . .

Brinda entered the large saloon. Tired, she sank down in a large comfortable armchair. The platinum blonde appeared, apparently in a more friendly mood, with the suggestion: "I'm dying for some American coffee—aren't you?"

Brinda called the steward and asked, "Any possibility of getting some real American coffee?"

"I'll try," he smiled as Brinda looked at him and wondered where she had seen his face before.

"Perhaps Mr. Larsen will join us," the platinum blonde murmured hopefully, ordering service for three.

"Have you known Larsen long?" Brinda asked the girl, who hesitated for a while.

"No. . . . not very long, but he is charming. . . ."

Brinda agreed to this and Larsen came in a moment later. He joined them, delighted to notice that they had anticipated his presence when service for three arrived.

The blonde made a dissatisfied face after tasting the coffee, but Larsen drank it in large gulps, exclaiming: "Wonderful! The coffee is good!"

Brinda looked at him silently, then took a sip. It was mediocre coffee, indeed.

All at once Brinda recalled where she had seen the steward. He had been waiting on her that night in the "Red Cat." Why was he on board this Dutch Steamer?

I found the way to new pep... vitality... better looks!

A truly marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, under-weight, sluggishness, loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach, energize your body with rich, red blood!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper foods, have been vexed by overtaxing worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness, yet have no organic trouble or focal infection, and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number...

...if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient... to re-energize and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissues. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat to make use of it as Nature intended. This you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Build sturdy health

Because S.S.S. is in liquid form it begins its work as soon as you take it. Surprising results may be had by making S.S.S. treatment a part of your daily diet. Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it usually gets results—that's why so many say "S.S.S. Tonic builds sturdy health and makes you feel like yourself again." C.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. helps build STURDY HEALTH

Three years ago, Col. W. E. Persons (left), director of Alabama penal institutions, planted thirty-five acres of white mulberry trees at the Atmore State Prison. Silkworms feed on mulberry leaves and so now the prison has the largest silk producing farm in North America. Col. Persons is showing some of the silk to Rev. Cornelius H. Jansen, research consultant for the War Production Board.

Here is luxurious grandeur of an order rarely achieved in the creation of fine rings! Modern, without question—ultra modern! New! Different in conception, different in form! Both rings in GRANAT tempered gold.

Routine Chores Not For Nurses, Report

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, April 22—Nurses must be relieved of housekeeping and kitchen duties and devote their time exclusively to the sick to meet a war-affected nurse shortage, Ohio hospital officials were told today.

Miss Celia Cranz of Akron, chairman of the State Nurses' board, urged "nursing for nurses" by delegating secondary tasks to orderlies and nurse-aids, some supplied on a volunteer basis by the Office of Civilian Defense and the Red Cross programs.

"The nurse will have to be taken off the housekeeping and kitchen staff and put back on the hospital staff," Miss Cranz asserted in an address prepared for the Ohio hospital association meeting. She proposed a careful analysis of nurses' duties to determine which can be turned over to assistants.

Because war industries are taking so many of the group who formerly served as nurse aids, Miss Cranz suggested that older persons would fit into the hospital program for such tasks.

She said a recent survey showed 452 nurse vacancies in 69 hospitals. Some of this can be remedied by increasing the number of student nurses, Miss Cranz declared.

Another source already tapped, she reported, is married nurses who neither are registered nor working at their profession. She estimated "there are half as many nurses in this group as those in active practice."

"The married nurses will come back if at all possible. We can count on them," she said.

The discharge rate of patients from nine state hospitals has reached an average of more than 50 percent—the highest in history. Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said in an address yesterday.

One of the hospitals dismissed 77 per cent of its inmates as "cured" last year, he asserted. There are more than 20,000 persons in the institutions.

Port Clinton Soldiers Possibly Jap Prisoners

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 22.—There were 175 Okinawans among the former National guardsmen taken prisoner by the Japanese on Bataan. Roland Lee, assistant adjutant general, said today.

The War department reported in Washington that of the 3,000 guardsmen, who took part in the heroic defense only 107 were evacuated to Corregidor.

The Okinawans, mostly from the Port Clinton area, were members of the 192nd Tank battalion which trained at Fort Knox, Ky., and landed in the Philippines in November, 1940.

The War department announced last week that Brig. Gen. James R. Weaver, formerly of Fremont, was believed captured in the Bataan conquest.

Under intermittent investigation since the untimely death in 1929 of Actress Jeanne Eagles, the Body & Mind Foundation in New York has been raided and the director, Dr. Edward S. Cowles, noted psychiatrist, summoned to appear May 7 before the medical grievance committee of the state department of health. The clinic was founded in 1923 when Dr. Cowles began his experiment in "pietistic therapeutics" in a church. Death of Miss Eagles, star of "Rain," in Dr. Cowles' private sanitarium, brought about an investigation. The clinic was ousted from the church 10 years ago.

Ohio Wheat Seen As Aid To Synthetic Rubber Output

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, April 22.—Ohio could divert 10,000,000 bushels of wheat annually to the production of ethyl alcohol for the manufacture of synthetic rubber, a farm official estimated today.

Rep. Anton J. Johnson (R-Ill.) suggested in Congress yesterday the establishment of a "large number" of small distilling plants in the grain belt where farms can provide an "almost inexhaustible supply of agricultural products from which ethyl alcohol can be made."

Elmer Kruse, state agricultural adjustment administration chairman, said that in addition to turning a third of their annual wheat production to industrial use, Ohio's farmers could increase their potato output for this purpose.

The state's farmers feed most of the corn they produce and 26.7 per cent of the wheat, he asserted.

Prof. J. I. Falconer, chairman of the department of rural economics at Ohio State university, said the plan probably would be suited better to the larger wheat producing states.

Johnson told the house that Germany had 36,000 small ethyl alcohol plants at the beginning of the war. He estimated that the United States could make synthetic rubber from corn which would cost "approximately 22 1/2 cent per pound or only 4 1/2 cents more than the present fixed price of natural rubber, or about 52 cents for the average tire."

Johnson charged that "petroleum and cane sugar interests apparently have united to repress and block the use of farm products, such as corn, wheat, potatoes, as sources of raw materials" for making synthetic rubber.

"It appears that these interests are being favored in the development of the synthetic rubber program," he added.

AN APPEAL For Patriotic Service and Help!

The Christ Mission Truck will probably be unable to complete the entire City of Salem in its present house-to-house canvass in the time allowed.

On account of the needs of the Army and the defense industries for men, the Mission is not able to secure enough able bodied workers for its trucks. The Christ Mission Industries are giving employment to nearly fifty crippled, blind, aged and other handicapped workers who have families to support. The jobs of these people are dependent upon securing the cast-off materials which the public are willing and anxious to contribute.

Furthermore, all the papers, rags, metals and rubber go immediately to defense industries. In addition, all the brooms, most of the mops and about 90% of the wiping rags produced by the Mission are sold to defense industries. The clothing, furniture and other materials are needed by the poor after being repaired and reconditioned.

Arrangements have been made to receive the contributions at the Memorial Building on East State Street.

Householders of Salem could render a very great service in this emergency if they would bring their filled Mission bags and other cast-off materials to the Memorial Building. Your cooperation would be greatly appreciated.

Will you not help in this way if at all possible?

By order of the War Production Board . . .
we cannot extend electric lines more than 250 feet to reach premises not now supplied with electricity

The 250 foot limit is from the point of connection to our present lines (i. e. lines that supply electricity at suitable voltage) to the point of connection to a house or other structure. The ruling applies to all homes and buildings already built, but lacking electric service, as well as to homes and buildings under construction.

We want to make electric service available to all, wherever it is needed. But the winning of the war comes first, and we are complying fully with all government regulations to that end. Therefore, if you plan to build — or occupy premises not now supplied with electricity — get in touch with our nearest office to find out whether or not we can serve you. This WPB order may be revoked at any time, and an even stricter ruling issued in its place. Avoid misunderstandings and disappointment. The exact location of your home on a particular plot of ground is now a matter of great importance when it comes to getting electric service.

The new order — stricter than those previously in effect — has been made by the WPB to save copper and other critical war materials. We want all of our customers to know these facts. They explain why we cannot extend our electric lines to serve you as we have in the past.

Salem Thinclads Defeat Warren For 1st Win Of Season, 73-44

BOB RUFFING WINS IN WEIGHT EVENTS AS QUAKERS ROMP

Relay Teams Score Wins In Locals' Initial Triumph Of Year

Paced by husky Bob Ruffing who copped first in the shot put and discus, the Salem High track squad trampled a weak Warren outfit on the cinders of Rely stadium yesterday by a 73-44 count.

Aside from Ruffing's pair of triumphs, the Quakers scored wins in five other events and took both the 880 and the mile relays.

Ed Ferko, up and coming sophomore quarter miler, scored a win in the 440 when he overtook Frank "Jock" Hagan, Salem veteran, in the home stretch to win by just a few feet in the time of 54.5 seconds.

Dick Boughton copped first place in the 100 yard dash in the rather low time of 11 seconds while Bill Beardmore came through with a second place in the same event. Beardmore also copped first in the 220 yard dash in which he was clocked at 24.4 seconds. Danny Kleon vaulted 11 feet to take the pole vault after a spirited duel with Benoit of Warren for top honors while Frank "Sneezey" Snyder leaped 18 feet six inches for a win in the broad jump. Hagan, who earned a second in the 440 also merited a tie for first place in the high jump.

The relay teams both scored their second wins of the season in much improved time over their performances against Youngstown Raven last week. The 880 yard relay team composed of Boughton, Snyder, Ed Cobb and Beardmore galloped off their win in 1 minute, 38.7 seconds to win by several yards. The mile relay team turned in a time of 3 minutes, 46.3 seconds to take the event in a breeze. This team is made up of Perry Whitacre, Art Scheib, Ferko and Hagan.

Quakers Place
Other Quaker athletes who turned in fine performances were Frank "Flick" Entriens who took second place in both the hurdle races, Darwin Charnesky and Bill Shoop who copped second and third respectively in the 880 yard run. Johnny Hart and Dick Cullerson who placed second and third respectively in the discus event won by Ruffing. Johnny Tafian who took third in the high hurdles and Dick Greene who placed No. 3 in the low hurdles. Ed Cobb ran third in the 220 yard dash while Boughton took third in the high jump.

Wimbish of Warren and Ruffing shared individual honors as each took two events to score 10 points. The Quakers will engage in their third dual meet of the campaign Friday evening when they journey to Louisville to seek their second win of the current season. Louisville has once more come up with a good outfit which is especially strong in the dashes and hurdles. With the Quakers starting to round into good track shape, the meet ought to be another close one.

Tribe Downs Browns To Move Into Third

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, April 22.—With the satisfaction of being in third place, the Cleveland Indians sent Vernon Kennedy against the St. Louis Browns today for the third game of the series and the last one to be played here until May 10.

Hoping to win at least one match here, the Browns called on young Bob Muncie, winner of 13 games last year to avenge the Tribe's 4 to 2 triumph yesterday. The victory put Cleveland in third place.

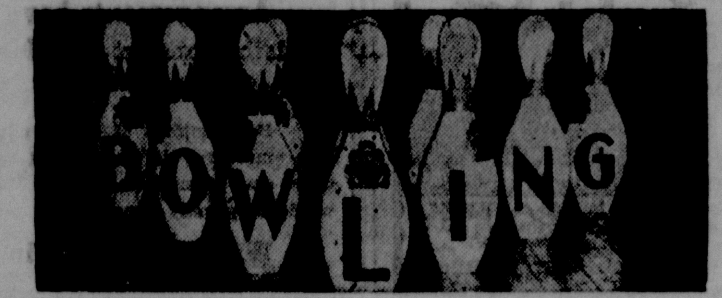

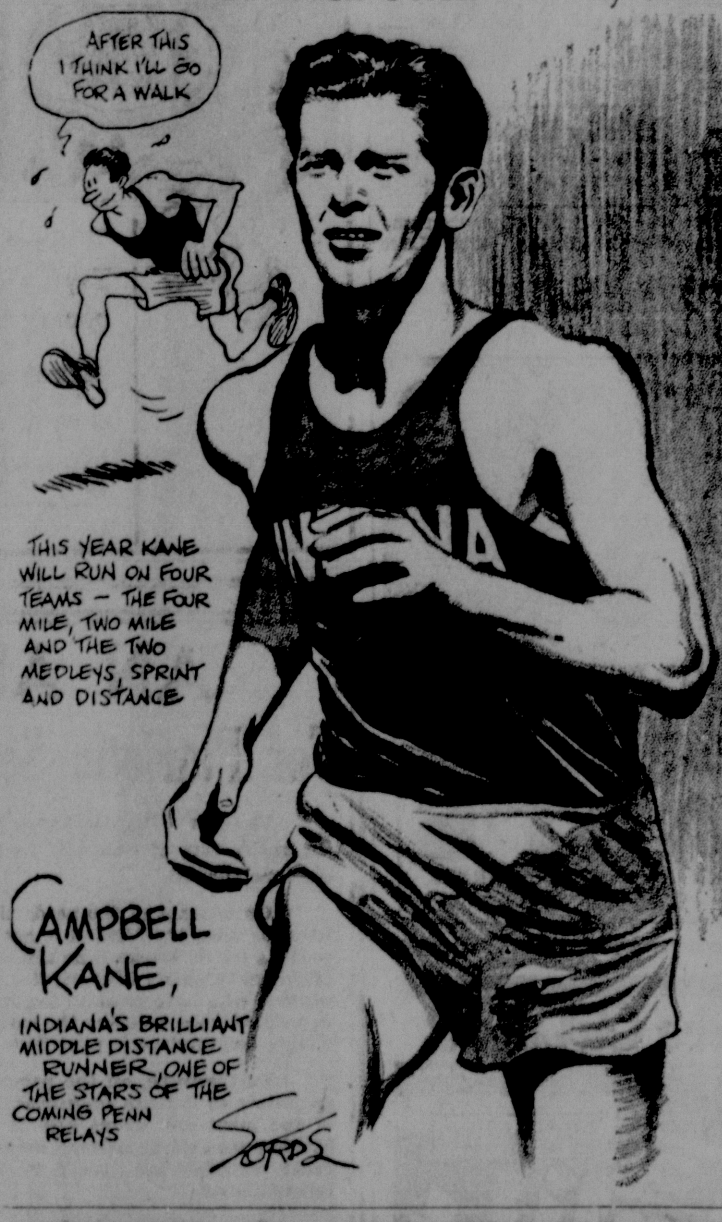

Al Milnar limited the Browns to seven scattered hits yesterday in netting his first victory of the season. He permitted a tally in the fifth on doubles by Rick Ferrell and Don Gutteridge, and another in the ninth on a walk, a single and a sacrifice.

In their half of the fifth, the Redskins jumped on Bob Harris for four hits and three runs, enough to win the game, but they added another marker in the seventh.

The Indians open a 15-game road trip tomorrow in St. Louis.

MIDDLE DISTANCE STAR - By Sords

The Eagles continued to dominate the National League standings as they took three from the Masons last night on the Masonic alleys, the first two on forfeit. In a postponed match the Eagles won three from the Electric Furnace.

City Loan, in second place, was able to win only two from Grates, while a forfeit by the National Sanitary strengthened the Salem News' hold on third position. The fourth-place Electric Furnace dropped two to Salem China.

Bill Finley of the City Loan cracked out a 246 in his first game and wound up with 601. Andy Dixon had a 220, Curt Shepard a 211, Pete Bonnell a 214 and 209, Ralph Phillips a 213, Lynn Ferguson a 210, Jim Jackson a 216, Wink Miller a 212. In the Eagles-Electric Furnace postponed match, Bob Tubbs had a 249, Charles Wernet a 201 and 224, and Sarge Gregg a 216.

As the Mullins league wound up its season on the Grate alleys last night, Gus Bauman, substitute on the Inspection team, came through with a mighty 204, the first 200 game he ever rolled.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Asa Bushnell says it's 50-50 whether the Poughkeepsie Regatta will be held at some other place.... As we see it, that means 50-1 it will go to Syracuse and 50-1 that most people won't care.... Les MacMitchell who is scheduled to run four races at the Penn Relays, may wind up his college career with another duel with Gil Dadds during commencement week at Georgetown U.... MacMitchell is due to go into the navy right after his graduation from N. Y. U.... Mushy McGee, Mike Jacobs' handyman, goes into the army Friday.... Although it's generally agreed that Lieut. Mickey Cochran will pilot the all-star service team against the major leaguers this summer, folks around Jacksonville, Fla., argue that Lieut. George Earnshaw of the naval air station there should be at least chief coach.

One-Minute Sports Page
Julie Kogon has had to call off his fight with Joe Pirrone at Chicago Friday because his boss in a New Haven (Conn.) defense plant says he can't be spared.... In his last three New York fights (and we mean last) Lew Jenkins lost to Red Cochran, Bob Montgomery and Sammy Angott. On each card his stablemate, Allie Stolz, won the semi-windup. Next time out Stolz will be fighting Angott for the lightweight title.

Today's Guest Star
W. N. Cox, Norfolk Virginian-Pilot: "The same day that Rapid Robert Feller showed the Newark Bears so much stuff he was up with the navy training squad at 4:30 in the morning, that is they haven't gone to bed yet, but they either can't or don't pitch like Bobby, either."

OHIO TEAMS ROLL ABC "OWL" SHIFT

COLUMBUS, April 22.—The valued coliseum on Ohio's state fairgrounds early echoed the boom of bowling balls in today's wee hours.

As five spectators looked sleepily on, two Ohio quintets took their belated turns on a pair of American Bowling Congress drives—with 34 other lanes vacant.

They drew the post-midnight vigil because a pin-setting device was broken as a pin-boy dropped it during the first game of their scheduled tour last night. So the teams—the St. Clair-58th Recreations of Cleveland and the Spears Funeral home of Columbus—were pulled off to roll after the night's second shift.

Unmolested save possibly by silence, the Clevelanders finished with a 2766 while the Funeral five compiled 2721.

Two scoreboard men blinked owlishly. A brace of pin boys yawned. But the foul judge was on the qui vive. He called three fouls.

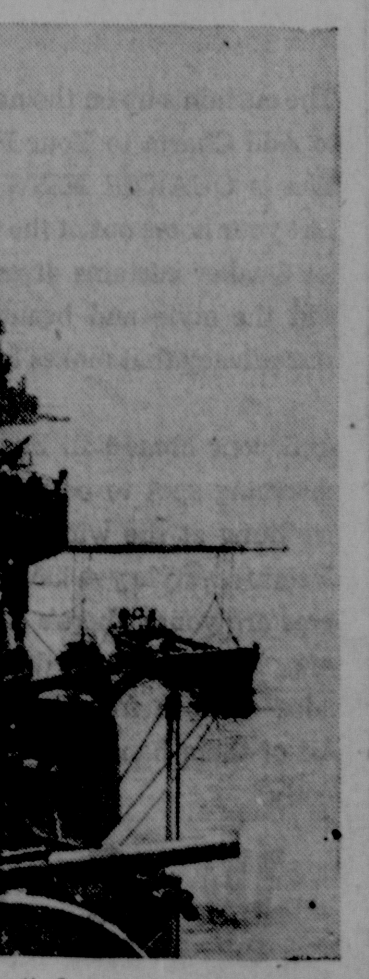

Others on hand besides the little knot of spectators were four alley maintenance men, one taxicab starter and two charwomen.

P. S.—The ABC tournament leaders were unchanged by last night's bowlers, paced in the five-man event by the Dr. Pepper team of Hamilton, O., with a 2919 on games of 973, 931 and 1015.

Guilford Is Stocked
LISBON, April 22.—Guilford lake was stocked with approximately 2,500 fully matured bass and crappies Tuesday under the supervision of Game Warden L. W. Boring. The fish were trucked here from the state hatcheries at Meander dam in Mahoning county.

WILMINGTON, April 22.—The Clinton county fair will be the scene this year of the Ohio pacing derby, top stake race of the Ohio State fair.

Milkman Sets Marathon Mark

Joe Smith winning
—I. I. N. Phonograph

Urged to enter by his wife, Joe Smith, 27-year-old Medford, Mass., milkman, not only won the 26-mile 385-yard Boston A. A. marathon run but set a new record doing it. Smith, shown finishing, covered the distance in 2 hours 26 minutes and 51½ seconds, clipping more than a minute and a half off the old mark. Smith beat the nearest of his 113 rivals, Lou Gregory of Syracuse U., by a quarter-mile. Smith was greatly weakened by a case of influenza in January and had not planned to participate in the race.

GOSHEN NINE TOPS LEETONIA, 16 TO 11

In a baseball game played on the Goshen diamond yesterday, the Goshen High nine downed the Leetonia team in a slug-fest, 16-11. Ray Stanley went the route for the winners although touched for 12 blows by the Leetonians while Oliver and Krause shared hurling duties for the Blue and White.

Schepfer pounded out a home run and four other hits to lead Goshen at the bat while Dom Stumpo of Leetonia clouted three safe knocks in four trips to the plate to pace Leetonia. One of his blasts was a triple.

Cincy Staggering Toward Loop Cellar As Pitching Fails; Dodgers, Bucs Win

(By Associated Press)

The Cincinnati Reds are staggering grossly at the doorway to the National league cellar and finally fearing what their best friends wouldn't tell them during spring training.

The Reds' pitching, one of baseball's marvels for the last three years, suddenly has faltered.

Yesterday the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the Redlegs, 1-0. The fact that Cincinnati did not score would never cause a ripple of concern anywhere, because the club never has been able to hit, but that Bucky Walters gave up 11 hits in 6 1-3 innings was a matter of moment.

In their six games so far the Reds have had to use 11 hurlers. Elmer Riddle, the league's leading twirler last year, was belted off the mound in the first inning he pitched this season. Gene Thompson lasted only three frames in his first start. John Vander Meer pitched a five-hitter but spoiled it with the "one bad inning" he seems to have in game after game.

Walters was beaten in the opening game of the season, too. He pitched seven-hit ball, yielded four runs in the first four innings. Altogether the Reds have given 33 hits in 60 innings.

Infidel Like Sieve
Other clubs might win with this sort of pitching, but the Reds cannot. Cincinnati has scored only 16 runs on 46 hits and the once-faultless defense now resembles a sieve. The Reds made eight errors in one game recently.

To show what the Reds are up against, St. Louis pitchers have allowed 48 hits in seven games and the Cardinals themselves have made 62 hits for 32 runs. And against the weaker opposition of the eastern division, Brooklyn pitchers have permitted 56 hits in eight games while their teammates have amassed 51 runs on 81 safeties.

Prior to yesterday, the Cardinals had come up with two four-hit games. Mort Cooper looked masterful in holding the Reds to three singles in his latest outing and the offense his teammates waged on Walters was nothing short of vicious.

The Dodgers administered an even more heartless thrashing to the Boston Braves in a 13-2 decision. Rookie Ed Head pitched eight-hit ball for his second success.

Bucs Trim Chicago
In the only other National league game Tuesday, (Rip) Sewell held the Chicago Cubs to six hits while the Pittsburgh Pirates patterned a 5-2 triumph around home runs by Bob Elliott and Stu Martin.

The New York Yankees crushed the Philadelphia Athletics, 10-4, by way of celebrating Manager Joe McCarthy's 55th birthday. Charley Keller hit a grand slam homer in the first inning as Charley (Red) Ruffing binned to his second victory.

The Detroit Tigers whipped the Chicago White Sox, 4-2, with Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe and Johnny Gorsica sharing a six-hit pitching stint. Rowe kept the Sox shut out till the ninth.

Cleveland bunched its hits to beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, in the other American league game as Lefty Al Milnar kept seven safeties adequately spaced.

FOOD PROBLEMS BESET GERMANY

Increasing Difficulties Confront Nazis in Feeding People of Europe

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Agriculture department, in a summary of recent cables on European food developments, told today of increasing difficulties confronting Germany and Nazi-occupied countries in producing and supplying their people with food and fibre crops.

Unoccupied France was said to be facing six breadless weeks before the new wheat harvest because of diversion of grain by the black markets, illegal use of wheat for feeding livestock and poultry, counterfeiting ration cards, and failure of farmers to deliver the quantities expected.

The department said reports coming out of Germany indicated that strongest measures were being taken against violators of food rationing regulations.

Recent restrictions upon the milling of wheat and rye indicate, the department said, that German grain stocks have declined to a level where economies must be effected in order to insure against a poor crop at home this year and the possibility of supplies from southeastern Europe falling below expectations.

Denmark Output Low
Agriculture production in Denmark, which in 1941 was less than half of normal, was said to be seriously threatened by the late spring shortages of fertilizers, seeds and labor.

The department said Germany hoped to secure the production of sufficient food in occupied Ukrainian Russia to meet the needs of Nazi occupation forces and for the bare maintenance of the local population.

"Reports indicate," the department said, "that spring sowing in the Ukraine is no easy task owing to the shortage of machinery and horses taken or destroyed by the Russians. Despite repairs and resumed production of some farm implements spring work must be chiefly manual. It is impossible to till the land thoroughly owing to insufficient plows."

The department said the labor shortage was especially severe in the southern districts of the Ukraine, but that Germany planned to procure workers from cities. Reports from Russia told how the Soviet army had slaughtered great numbers of Ukraine sheep for food to prevent them from falling into German hands.

The department said Germany appears to be getting large supplies of oranges from Spain. The fruit was said to be moving mainly by coastwise steamers from Spanish ports to French ports and then by rail to Germany.

English farmers, the department said, are now plowing about 50 per cent more land this spring than they did before the war, despite acute shortages in labor, machinery and other supplies.

ROAD SIGNS SAVE VALUABLE TIRES
(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 22.—Ohio's bright yellow road signs and markings are more than safety warnings, they're tire savers, Col. Lynn Black, chief of the state highway patrol, said today.

"Observance of markings and signs—especially those for curves and stops—will add several thousand miles to the life of tires," Black asserted. "While cutting highway speed from the legal limit of 50 to the suggested rate of 40 will give the motorist 5,000 to 8,000 more miles of tire wear."

The highway patrol can't force the motorist to follow their instructions but Black reported that the "public has cooperated above all expectations" in cutting their speed to 40 on the highway.

Drivers traveling above that rate are stopped and asked to slow down in the interest of national defense tire conservation.

The January-through-March total was 20.6 larger than in the corresponding 1941 period, due largely to increased war production, Blake said. There were 95 fatalities in March, 21 more than in February.

permitted to revert to alien hands, as they did after the first World War.

Leo Crowley, alien property custodian, disclosed that the President's orders already were being carried out—that researchers even now were studying once-forbidden processes for making artificial rubber, fuels, foods and fabrics as well as all kinds of drugs, biologicals, electrical equipment and Diesel engines.

Among these, he said, were rubber and gasoline patents held by I. G. Farbenindustrie, the notorious German dye trust.

The seized patents, including those technically held in pools by Americans, will be made available to all the United Nations, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Lieut. Comdr. Scott

At the same time Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said two officers entrusted with specific phases of the liner's conversion failed to take adequate steps to insure its safety. One of the two censured officers, Lieut. Comdr. Lester C. Scott, is pictured above.

AUTO GRAVEYARDS SOURCE OF STEEL

CLEVELAND, April 22.—As a source of steel scrap, the nation's "automobile graveyards" will yield about 3,500,000 tons this year for war production, estimates E. C. Barringer, president of the Iron and Steel Scrap Institute.

Speaking at a salvage clinic sponsored by the war production board, Barringer said the scrap industry now is "in full cooperation with the war effort."

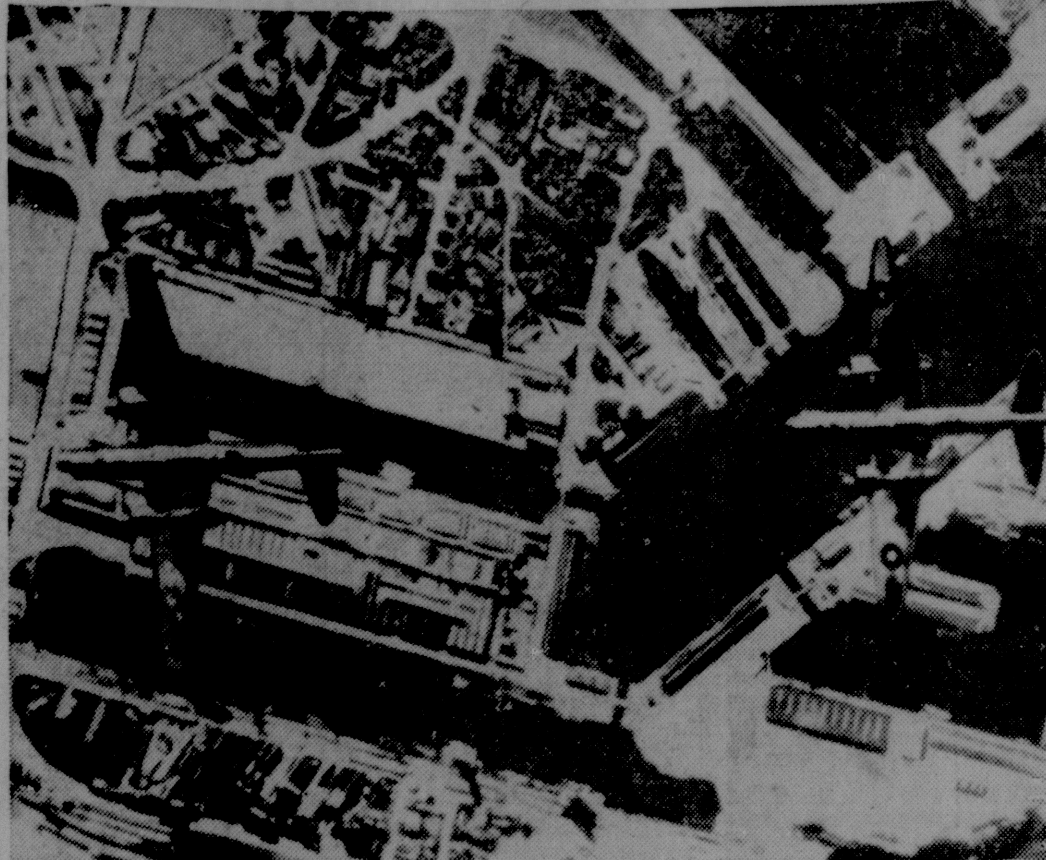

"From now on every scrap yard in America will be measured and must justify its existence by what it does for the war effort," he said.

L. F. Reinartz, manager of the Middletown-Hamilton division of the American Rolling Mill Co., spoke of the tremendous speed-up in war production and declared "I know of one large steel company which used up six weeks' normal supply of scrap in six days."

He urged faster movement of scrap to mills, and said many open hearths are "still on a day to day basis" because of a scrap shortage.

Q. Is provision made for any other payments, in hardship cases?

A. Yes, the bill contains another section which provides that the Federal Security administrator may grant additional funds when he finds that the allowances are insufficient to provide the dependents with a reasonable subsistence.
